

84 his fancy
Lynal

A. A. ROBACK
8 Prescott Street
Cambridge, Massachusetts

December 9
1944

Dr. Alfonso Reyes ✓
El Colegio de Mexico
Panuco, 63
Mexico

Dear Dr. Reyes:

Thank you for the translation of your paper, which arrived this morning. I suppose that you are pretty well satisfied with it, in view of the fact that it was executed under your supervision.

I have asked at the bank what the equivalent of the Mexican peso was, and I am enclosing my personal check to cover the amount. I imagine that the translator is a man who commands a large fee for his literary productions. Some time ago I read that you were not feeling well and had to cancel your engagements. I hope that you have fully recovered.

With the kindest regards and best wishes for the holiday and New Year, I remain

Sincerely yours,

A. A. Roback

AAR:rc

I found your letter only a week after this was typewritten. Your letter explains everything.
Thank you very much.