Dear Sir:

Your very kind letter of August 8th was in some manner mislaid, and has just come to my attention today. This probably happened when I moved from my original room in the hotel to another, and I wish you to accept my sincere apology for this unfortunate delay in acknowledgment.

I appreciate very very much your kindness and the courtesy extended to me by you and your Department, and if time permits I shall be very pleased to call at your office for a visit. However, as we are sailing Saturday, this may not be possible.

Again thanking you for your kind invitation and the courtesy extended, I am

Yours very sincerely,
