Mr. Alvaro Obregon,

Dear Sir:

Now that it has been officially announced that you have been chosen as the next President of your country, we desire to extend our sincere congratulations upon your election.

We feel sure, under your able guidance, that your great country will be brought to its normal condition and be able to forever turn its back upon the past ten years that it has undeservingly suffered through circumstances that is to be regretted by all.

You will perhaps remember us, when with your staff, you were our guests at the hotel Sanz at San Luis Potosi during the troublesome and uncertain days during the latter part of the year 1915.

It is our prayer and hope that you may serve long and well.

Very Respectfully Yours.
