

7

Recorte de editorial favorable
a nuestro país publicado el día
4 del actual por el "NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL", que es uno de los periódicos de la tarde de más circulación en los Estados Unidos.

Nueva York, noviembre 6 de 1926.

EXP. 1.8.1.

NUM. 3804

Srita. Soledad González,
MEXICO - D. F.

Tengo el honor de remitir a usted con el presente despacho los documentos anotados arriba, rogándole acusar recibo.

Reitero a usted las seguridades de mi atenta consideración.

SUFRAGIO EFECTIVO.-NO REELECCION.

Armando Elias CONSUL GENERAL.

Paul
AME.EG.

Ny Journal 2 EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1926

Mexico at Least Tries

That's More Than We Do Here, Sometimes.

Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Journal, Inc.
Registered U. S. Patent Office.

An American newspaper says, "Mexico can hardly be called peaceful or quiet when an American tourist (Jacob Rosenthal) is murdered less than forty miles from the Mexican capital."

This country, however, is in no condition to criticize Mexico for not enforcing law. We shoot each other down in the streets of our big cities with machine guns. Not long ago, a number of Mexicans were killed on United States soil, and thus far no satisfaction whatever has been given to the Mexican Government.

It is easy for us to say that there was a good reason for killing such and such a Mexican. But the Mexicans might say the same, if they choose, about our Americans killed.

In the case of Mr. Rosenthal, whose sad death is regretted by many friends, it must at least be said for the Mexican Government, that since he was killed thirteen Mexican bandits, including those that kidnaped him, have been killed by Mexican soldiers and police. That at least shows a DESIRE to render justice.

In addition, there is no doubt that Mr. Rosenthal's family will receive such compensation for their loss as can be made financially. There can, of course, be no real compensation.

JACOB ROSENTHAL, VICTIM OF MEXICAN BANDITS.

My Journal

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1926

Mexico at Least Tries

That's More Than We Do Here, Sometimes.

Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Journal, Inc.
Registered U. S. Patent Office.

An American newspaper says, "Mexico can hardly be called peaceful or quiet when an American tourist (Jacob Rosenthal) is murdered less than forty miles from the Mexican capital."

This country, however, is in no condition to criticize Mexico for not enforcing law. We shoot each other down in the streets of our big cities with machine guns. Not long ago, a number of Mexicans were killed on United States soil, and thus far no satisfaction whatever has been given to the Mexican Government.

It is easy for us to say that there was a good reason for killing such and such a Mexican. But the Mexicans might say the same, if they choose, about our Americans killed.

In the case of Mr. Rosenthal, whose sad death is regretted by many friends, it must at least be said for the Mexican Government, that since he was killed thirteen Mexican bandits, including those that kidnaped him, have been killed by Mexican soldiers and police. That at least shows a DESIRE to render justice.

In addition, there is no doubt that Mr. Rosenthal's family will receive such compensation for their loss as can be made financially. There can, of course, be no real compensation.

JACOB ROSENTHAL, VICTIM OF MEXICAN BANDITS.

My Journal

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1926

Mexico at Least Tries

That's More Than We Do Here, Sometimes.

Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Journal, Inc.
Registered U. S. Patent Office.

An American newspaper says, "Mexico can hardly be called peaceful or quiet when an American tourist (Jacob Rosenthal) is murdered less than forty miles from the Mexican capital."

This country, however, is in no condition to criticize Mexico for not enforcing law. We shoot each other down in the streets of our big cities with machine guns. Not long ago, a number of Mexicans were killed on United States soil, and thus far no satisfaction whatever has been given to the Mexican Government.

It is easy for us to say that there was a good reason for killing such and such a Mexican. But the Mexicans might say the same, if they choose, about our Americans killed.

In the case of Mr. Rosenthal, whose sad death is regretted by many friends, it must at least be said for the Mexican Government, that since he was killed thirteen Mexican bandits, including those that kidnaped him, have been killed by Mexican soldiers and police. That at least shows a DESIRE to render justice.

In addition, there is no doubt that Mr. Rosenthal's family will receive such compensation for their loss as can be made financially. There can, of course, be no real compensation.

JACOB ROSENTHAL, VICTIM OF MEXICAN BANDITS.

"NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL."
noviembre 4 de 1926.

MEXICO CUANDO MENOS HACE LA LUCHA,
Y eso es Más de lo que Hacemos Aquí a Veces.

Un periódico americano dice: "A México apenas se le puede llamar un país pacífico o tranquilo, cuando un turista americano (Jacob Rosenthal) es asesinado a menos de cuarenta millas de la capital mexicana."

Este país, sin embargo, no está en condiciones de criticar a México, porque no hace cumplir sus leyes. - Nosotros nos matamos en las calles de nuestras grandes ciudades a cañonazos. No hace mucho que en tierra americana asesinaron a varios mexicanos y, hasta ahora, - ninguna satisfacción se le ha dado al Gobierno mexicano.

Para nosotros es facil decir que hubo muy buenos - motivos para matar a este o al otro mexicano, pero los mexicanos pueden decir lo mismo, de los americanos muertos allá, si les parece.

En el caso del señor Rosenthal, cuya desgraciada - muerte ha sido bien lamentada por muchos de sus amigos, puede decirse cuando menos que el Gobierno mexicano ha demostrado el DESEO de hacer justicia, pues desde entonces, trece bandidos mexicanos han sido muertos por los soldados y la policía; entre ellos están incluidos sus secuestradores.

Además, es indudable que la familia de Mr. Rosen--

"New York Evening Journal"

p. 2.

thal reciba una compensación monetaria por la pérdida-sufrida, que en estos casos nada puede compensar.

— — — — —

Trad.:MCM.