Dear Professor Rostow

You will excuse me if I am writing you a bit late, but I wanted to announce you that I got hold of Mr. Hansen's manuscript on Mexico's economic development. Unfortunately, I have failed. Mr. Hansen sent three mimeographed copies of his book, one to a Mexican historian, a second one to an economist and the third and last one to a political scientist, asking from all of them for comments. Naturally these three people want to keep their copies. On the other hand, I discovered that the manuscript was not finished as Chapter I, apparently was not written when Mr. Hansen sent to Mexico those copies.

I suppose, however the book is being published any moment, although I ignore whether the publisher would be a commercial one, or the National Planning Association, where Mr. Hansen works. Anyhow, it will be easy for you to be advised of the book being available. The author's name and title are as follows:

Roger D. Hansen: Mexican Economic Development
Today's "Miracle" and Yesterday's Heritage.

I wish to express to you and Mrs. Rostow our deep appreciation for your splendid reception.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely
