Monday

My dear Sir;

I hope that you will remember me as the officer who called upon you some years ago and arranged for the delivery of the forged telegrams to President Coolidge, as a result of which the U.S. Ambassador resigned and was succeeded by my friend Dwight Morrow.

It would give me

great pleasure to call upon you, if you are now sufficiently recovered from your recent illness.

With kindest regards,
believe me,

Sincerely yours
