MEXICAN ENVOY TO CANADA IS HERE

NEWLY APPOINTED COMMERCIAL AGENT TO DOMINION VISITS CITY

Already the new Mexican government is launching a campaign to build up an extensive trade between Mexico and foreign countries, according to advices given out today by Luis Murua Martinez of the City of Mexico, recently appointed Mexican commercial agent to Canada by President de la Huerta. Mr. Martinez is now on his way to Canada to take up his appointed work, and will make Toronto his headquarters, but will travel to practically every city of importance in the dominion.

"This is not a new step on Mexico's part," said Mr. Martinez, "but an old one that we are taking up again. There has not been a Mexican commercial agent in Canada for several years, but this is one of the numerous aggressive acts that the new government is doing in an effort to build up the country."

Accompanying Mr. Martinez is Eulalio Roman, also of the City of Mexico. Mr. Roman is the owner of the largest private bank in Mexico and is on his way to New Orleans on private business. He says that the financial situation in Mexico is steadily improving and that the dollar now holds its full value. The dollar is worth two pesos in Mexican money, he says. Gold is the principal medium of exchange, some silver is in circulation, but no paper money is being circulated, he added.

Both men were very anxious to learn how the American public felt toward the new government.
