HOW TO USE THIS REQUEST LIST

This list has been compiled by the staff of the Latin America Bureau, NCWC, Washington, D.C., at the request of the Pontifical Commission for Latin America, Vatican City. It represents official petitions for Sisters from Right Reverend Ordinaries of Latin American Dioceses with occasional requests from major superiors of religious communities in Latin America. Most of these petitions have been submitted through the Papal Nunciatures in Latin America which have been encouraged by the Holy See to do everything possible to increase the religious personnel in their respective countries.

It is desired that the greatest possible use be made of this and similar lists.

Primary purpose of this list

The primary purpose of this list is to provide information to Mother Generals and Mother Provincials and their Councils who, in keeping with the appeal of the Holy See, are considering possible fields for apostolic action in Latin America.

Antecedent to using this list, a given community might ask itself the following questions:

1. What are the particular fields (primary or secondary education, hospital work, clinics, home nursing, social welfare, etc.) in which the community by its homeland experience is prepared to labor?
2. What are the financial conditions under which the community is prepared to take up work?
3. What particular administrative circumstances (v.g., previous involvement in Latin America of European provinces of the community) may influence the choice of the country in which the community will work?
4. What socio-geographic factors in the community's U.S. activities might influence the planning (urban rather than rural work, Portuguese rather than Spanish language areas, etc.)?
5. Is the community in a position to accept a hardship post in an area of difficult climate, of primitive living conditions, of a poverty-stricken economy unable to provide any support?
6. Is the community prepared to meet a major need in any given country by undertaking a form of activity heretofore not attempted by its members?

With answers to these questions at hand the superiors are urged to select projects on the Request List likely to prove suitable for consideration. These may be discussed by mail or telephone with the Permanent Secretariat of the Women's Conference or with the Director of the Latin America Bureau who under ordinary circumstances will propose contact with the Pontifical Commission and ecclesiastical authorities prepared to advise the community on how best to serve the Church in Latin America.

The Pontifical Commission recommends that when the selection of possible projects has been made the community either send a qualified representative to Latin America for on-the-spot negotiation with the authorities or name a non-member acceptable to the community to act for it.

Supplementary uses of this list

In addition to serving for the selection of fields of labor, religious communities of Sisters are encouraged to consider further uses for this request list.

1. Copies of the list may be distributed throughout the houses of the community to make known to the members the extent and variety of the needs of the Church in Latin America as expressed by the requests of the Bishops;
2. Copies of the list may be employed in novitiates for demonstrating the types of work for which the Latin American Church seeks the services of Sisters;
3. Copies of the list may be employed in institutions of education, in nurses' training schools, in vocational and fund-raising programs for illustrating the urgency of enlisting and supporting the community's candidates to the Sisterhood.

The Province is divided by the rivers Salado and Dulce. The territory east of the Salado is often wooded while that to the west of the Dulce is saline desert, including the Salinas Grandes, or salt flats. Between the two rivers there is a sufficient water supply for the nearby farming and ranching areas. The rainy season in the region extends from October to March. Also see the climate description for the Diocese of Anatum.

The area is located on the main route from Bolivia to Buenos Aires. There are mail and telecommunications and rail connections. It is also accessible by National Highways #9, #34, #64. There are numerous connecting roads in the area. The total population of the Diocese is 487,182.

This is a pleasant area at an altitude of 8,000 feet with a temperate climate. The Cochabamba Basin holds the largest concentration of settlement in Bolivia. Population of the Diocese is 607,000 with 566,000 Catholics.

Project Description: No details given.

Area Description: The town of Arani, with 10,000 inhabitants, lies about 30 miles southeast of Cochabamba, with which Arani is connected by road and railroad. A number of U. S. priests (Dominicans, Maryknoll, Missionary Society of St. James) and Sisters (Daughters of Charity, Dominicans, Maryknoll, Missionary Sisters of the Immaculate Conception) have missions in the Diocese.

Present Facilities: The existing parish house could serve as a school and as a dwelling for the Sisters. There is plenty of garden-type land around the house.

Request #5 - Bolivia, Prelature of Corocoro (Date: August, 1962 - Nunciature, La Paz)

PROJECT: Community of Sisters to staff a school, assist at hospital and help in parish activities in town of Colquiri.

Background Information on the Prelature: Located in West-Central Bolivia in the Department of La Paz. This southern region of the Department lies in the Altiplano. The Corocoro area is one of two clusters of population (the other is Oruro) which originated as mining centers rather than agricultural regions. From the group of mines in this vicinity comes about 90% of the copper production of Bolivia. The area rises to an altitude of 13,500 feet; the climate is cold and dry. Good roads lead north from Corocoro to La Paz and south to Oruro. Population of the Prelature is 205,000 with 200,000 Catholics.

Background Information on the Prelature: See Request #4.

Project Description: General parish tasks would be undertaken by the Sisters in this area which is confronted with the dangers of religious indifference, ignorance and Protestantism. The region will be administered by three priests.

Area Description: The parishes cover an area of 965 square miles centering around the town of Calamarca, south of La Paz. They include 25,000 inhabitants scattered throughout the region, which is an average of 12,400 feet above sea level. Climate is cool and dry.

Present Facilities: No information given.

Finances: No data supplied.

Petitioner: See Request #4.

Request #7 - Bolivia, Archdiocese of La Paz (Date: January, 1962).

PROJECT: Six Sisters to staff primary boys' school in La Paz.

Background Information on the Archdiocese: Located in the Department of La Paz, West-Central Bolivia, in the Altiplano, the Archdiocese lies at the bottom of a chasm facing that part of the Eastern Cordillera known as the Cordillera Real. The site of the capital city of La Paz was originally chosen for its accessibility to the chief colonial route of travel and its relative protection from the cold winds of the Altiplano. Today the location seems less practical and results in the city's being cramped for space to grow. Although partly protected from the heavy winds of the Altiplano, La Paz experiences rapid changes of temperature and rarified atmosphere making respiratory diseases common. The altitude rises to 12,000 feet making La Paz the world's highest big city. It is not uncommon for people to show at least some signs of nervous strain at this height but relief is secured by brief periodical absences. The population of the Archdiocese is 860,000 with 800,000 Catholics. Population of the city of La Paz is 321,073.

Project Description: This six-grade primary school (in conformity with the Latin American educational system) is associated with the Colegio San Calixto, a high school, but is housed in a separate building. The school was formerly operated by the Spanish Sisters of "Amor de Dios" who have had to give up their missionary work here. Consequently there are no teachers for about two-thirds of the boys.

Area Description: Nothing given other than above for Archdiocese.
U. S. clergy and religious in La Paz: Dominican, Franciscan, Maryknoll, Resurrection and St. James Society priests; Franciscan Loretine and Precious Blood Sisters.

Present Facilities: A new building is now being built and the primary grades will be the first to use it.

Finances: No information supplied.

Petitioner: Rev. Guillermo Carrero, S. J., Rector
 Colegio San Calixto
 Apartado 283
 La Paz, Bolivia

Request #8 - Bolivia, Diocese of Oruro (Date: August, 1962 - Nunciature, La Paz)

PROJECT: Community of Sisters for a primary school in Oruro.

Background Information on the Diocese: Located in the Altiplano or highland area of southwest Bolivia, in the Department of Oruro. The area of Oruro is one of two clusters of population (the other is Corocoro) which originated as mining centers, not agricultural regions. As a mining community, the region has been subject to major fluctuations of prosperity and of population due to the uncertain character of the business of finding and selling ores. Recently, with the rise of tin mining, the community has regained importance. Climate in the area is difficult, being cold and dry. Altitude is 11,000 to 12,000 feet above sea level. The population of the Diocese is 270,000 with 250,000 Catholics. The region is serviced by railroad and roads, including connections to La Paz. The city of Oruro connects Bolivia's agricultural district in Cochabamba with the mining district in the Eastern Cordillera by two major branches of a main rail line.

Project Description: The Sisters are badly needed for this area in which the children are completely abandoned. Specific details of the school situation are not given. Currently there are missionaries from the Oblates of Mary Immaculate working in the Diocese.

Area Description: The city of Oruro has a population of approximately 63,000 and is within three and one-half hours by road from La Paz.

Present Facilities: There is at present no building for use as a school. The Bishop will provide the land.

Finances: No support mentioned.

Petitioner: H. E. The Most Rev. Jorge Manrique
Bishop of Oruro
Palacio Episcopal
Casilla Correo 368
Oruro, Bolivia

Request #9 - Bolivia, Diocese of Oruro (Date: August, 1962 - Nunciature, La Paz)

PROJECT: Community of Sisters to operate a hospital and a grade school, and teach religion in the high school in Challapata, Diocese of Oruro.

Background Information on the Diocese: See Request #7.

Project Description: See Request #51 for details on the hospital work. The pastor of Challapata proposes that if the community of nuns which will administer the hospital is large enough, it might provide additional help in teaching religion in the high school. In addition, the Sisters could assume direction of a grade school for 500 girls. Help is greatly needed in each of these phases of the parish life.

Area Description: The town of Challapata lies approximately 65 miles south of Oruro which can be reached by train. There are unpaved roads in the area and rail service also extends to La Paz.

Present Facilities: There is a convent with chapel adjoining the hospital.

Finances: The Pastor states that the Sisters can expect support from the faithful.

Petitioner: See Request #7.

Request #10 - Bolivia, Diocese of Santa Cruz (Date: July, 1961 - Nunciature, La Paz)

PROJECT: Community of 5 Sisters to build and conduct a primary school in the Parish of La Merced in the city of Santa Cruz.

Background Information on the Diocese: Located in southeast Bolivia in the Department of Santa Cruz. The Department's eastern plains form part of an area, shared by Bolivia, Paraguay, Brazil and Argentina, known as the Gran Chaco. The climate of the Santa Cruz city area is humid and mild whereas that of the southeast region becomes drier as it approaches the Argentine border. The hot season extends from November through February. Relatively low altitude approximately 3,000 feet.

The population of the Diocese is 323,000 with 311,000 Catholics. The area around the city of Santa Cruz is the sole region of concentrated settlement in the southeast of Bolivia. The general vast area of Santa Cruz suffers from isolation and communication difficulties. However, a new truck road unites Santa Cruz with Cochabamba. In addition, rails reach east from the city into Brazil and there is air service to other Bolivian cities and to neighboring countries. Several communities of U. S. priests (Servants of the Holy Paraclete, Maryknoll, Salesians, St. James Missionaries) and Sisters (Dominican) are working in the area.

Project Description: This school, which could begin with the first three grades, would partly alleviate the school shortage in the area. In the city of Santa Cruz there is only one parish school plus two Catholic private schools (one for boys, one for girls), both of which are overcrowded. However, there are six Protestant schools.

Area Description: The Parish of La Merced is one of a number within the city of Santa Cruz and counts 15,000 parishioners cared for by the Jesuit Fathers.

Present Facilities: At present there is no building but the Pastor is trying to obtain funds estimated at $20,000 for construction. Within the limits of the Parish a lot of 4,000 square meters may be secured from the Jesuits by the Community which would build the school.

Finances: The school is for poor children and the Parish could not guarantee the Sisters' support. However, other such schools in the area have become self-supporting through modest monthly fees.

Petitioner: See Request #7.

Request #11 - Brazil, Archdiocese of Sao Paulo (Date: August, 1961 -)

PROJECT: Sisters to open elementary and high schools for middle class students in the Sao Paulo area.

Background Information on the Archdiocese: Located in the State of Sao Paulo in southern Brazil. Sao Paulo is the most progressive and most productive state in Brazil, with great accomplishments in agriculture and industry. The state as a whole has abundant moisture. The average annual rainfall for most of Sao Paulo is 56 inches. In the south of the state there is no winter dry season. Temperature of coastal areas like Santos are moderately high (66° in winter to 78° in summer). On the higher parts of the plateau averages are some 10° lower.

The population of the Archdiocese is 3,650,000 with 3,300,000 Catholics. Rail service and other modern means of communication are available, especially in the area of Sao Paulo city. A number of U. S. priests (Franciscans, Oblates of Mary Immaculate) and Sisters (Bernardines, Congregation of Our Lady of the Cenacle, Franciscans, Holy Cross, Ursulines) now have missionaries in the area.

Project Description: Sisters are needed to open a number of schools equivalent to the U. S. high school and junior college levels, totaling seven grades. Schools would have approximately 100 students per grade. The ecclesiastical authorities state that the schools may be established by opening one grade at a time, each year.

Area Description: The city of Sao Paulo is modern and thriving, growing at the rate of 10,000 per month. Of the four million population in the Archdiocese, two million people are without spiritual care. Some eighty parishes have been planned and no personnel is available. Sao Paulo counts five Protestant ministers for every Catholic priest. Sao Paulo is a focus of transportation with various rail lines extending into the interior. Other modern means of communication are available.

Present Facilities: None actually exist. It is explained that the schools can begin modestly by renting a large house to service the early grades of about 100 students each.

Finances: A modest tuition fee covering operational costs can be charged. After the first year of existence, it may be possible to arrange for municipal, state and federal loans, and sometime grants can be secured. Authorities state that schools should be self-maintaining by the time the seven grades are complete.

Petitioner: H. E. Carlos Carmelo Cardinal de Vasconcellos Motta

Request #12 - Chile, Diocese of Ancud (Date: May, 1961 - Nunciature, Santiago)

PROJECT: Nuns to assume charge of La Inmaculada primary girls academy in the city of Ancud.

Background Information on the Archdiocese: Located on the Island of Chiloe in Chiloe Province on the Pacific coast. It has a geographical position similar to that of Vancouver Island in North America. The climate is mild and rainy with little variation in temperature. There is a population of 115,000 with 100,000 Catholics. The great majority of the inhabitants are rural and engage in farming and fishing. The more populated areas tend to be near the seacoast areas. Some farming areas are faced with the problem of "minifundism", agricultural property divided into units so small that they cannot be worked economically. Co-operative farms are being considered for some of these regions.

There is air service to Ancud and Castro, plus ships of the state-owned line, la Empresa Maritima, as well as private boats for reaching the several small islands in the Diocese. There is medical service available in four small hospitals (one to four doctors in each) and other posts. The population is of Spanish origin with only slight Indian strains. Spanish is spoken; there are no dialects. In the islands there is a tendency towards a matriarchal society since many men emigrate to other areas to find work. In general, families are numerous with five to seven children and the people are poor.

Project Description: Sisters are needed to take charge of a small girls' primary academy which must be relinquished by the Community now operating it due to lack of funds and insufficient number of Sisters. The school could be expanded to include secondary teaching. The Sisters are needed immediately.

Area Description: The city of Ancud is at the northern part of the Island of Chiloe. There is in Ancud a priest who speaks English and is the English teacher at the Colegio-Seminario of Ancud. In addition, in the city of Purrangué, 200 km. north of Ancud, there are North American priests of the Precious Blood Society. One of these priests would be able to visit the Sisters at the school once a month. This trip is currently made by plane and bus but the government has assured the installation of a ferryboat between the continent and the Island of Chiloe. When this is completed the trip from Purrangué can be made by automobile.

Present Facilities: The school building is of wood and is in good condition. There is a chapel, sufficient classroom space, patios and recreation room for the girls. The Sisters have their own rooms plus land for a vegetable garden. The land now belongs to the Community which has operated the school (Religiosas de la Inmaculada) but can be purchased by the incoming community.

Finances: The school receives a government subsidy once a year for its maintenance. It is adequate to support the Sisters' expenses for food, clothing and medical assistance.

PROJECT: Sisters to establish a school in Chanaral.

Background Information on the Diocese: Located in the Province of Atacama, marking the southern limit of the Atacama desert, and experiencing an average temperature of 59° F. It is an important mining area, especially for the mining of copper. Agricultural output is limited. There are good communications with other principal cities of Chile by air, land and sea. The territory of the Diocese covers 80,000 square kilometers. Its total population is 110,000 with 90,000 Catholics.

Project Description: The Pastor of Chanaral and the Governor of the Department, with the Bishop's approval, request a community of Sisters to open a school in the parish. It would be the only one of its kind in the region and is badly needed.

Area Description: The Department is quite extensive and Chanaral has a population of 10,000 including the families of workers at the mining camp of "Andes Copper" of Barquito. The population of the camp is expected to triple when the company transfers its refinery from Potrerillos. The city of Chanaral, which is on the Pacific shore and is the head harbor of the copper mines of the region, is composed completely of working-class people. It has only one public school whose professors cannot provide necessary religious formation for the young students of the region.

Present Facilities: The parish will donate the site for the new school.

Finances: The Bishop explains that the parishioners will help finance construction of a building. In addition, "Andes Copper", a United States mining corporation, is expected to provide aid.

There is also train service.

Project Description: A group of seven Sisters is needed to operate a primary school and aid in a clinic in the parish of Salamanca in the Department of Illapel. The Sisters are requested for March, 1964.

Area Description: The parish is located in the Department of Illapel, 360 kilometers north of Santiago. It counts a total population of some 16,000 with 4,000 as a center. Located in a fertile agricultural region, the parish covers 70 kilometers and experiences excellent climate.

Present Facilities: At present there is no school building but living quarters will be provided for the Sisters in the present parish house. Eventually, a new house will be built.

Finances: This being a new Prelature, it will not be able to finance much construction or restoration of all the churches and chapels in the parish. Therefore, a community will be needed which will be able to make additions when necessary to the house and provide new construction. At present, private schools are given an operational subsidy of 50% of the sum ordinarily spent per pupil in the public schools.

Request #26 - Peru, Archdiocese of Lima (Date: May, 1961 - Nunciature, Lima)

Background Information on the Archdiocese: Located in the Department of Lima on the western coast of Peru. Its population totals 1,403,146 with 1,363,765 Catholics. U. S. clergy working in the Archdiocese include priests from the Carmelite Fathers, Franciscans, Marianists, Maryknolls, Precious Blood Fathers, St. James the Apostle Missionaries, Sons of Mary Fathers and Sisters from these communities: Sisters of Charity, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, Marist Missionary Sisters, Maryknoll, Precious Blood, Sacred Heart and Ursuline. There are also Irish Columban Fathers performing parochial work.

Project Description: The Maryknoll Pastor of this parish needs to open a second (combined primary and secondary) parochial school due to a recent enlargement of the parish to encompass 40,000 people. The parishioners at the far end of the parish will not be reached unless this second school is begun.

Area Description: The only details given about this parish in the Lima area are that it has been very well-administered in the past but now will actually include enough territory for two parishes.

Request #27 - Peru, Archdiocese of Lima (Date: May, 1961 - Nunciature, Lima)

PROJECT: Community of Sisters that could help financially in beginning to build a convent and open a combined primary and secondary school in the Lima suburb of Fray Martin de Porras.

Background Information on the Archdiocese: Same as for Request #26.

Project Description: This parish staffed by Irish Columban Fathers has a population variously estimated at 50,000 to 100,000 people, most of whom have recently arrived from the mountain towns. So far, however, there are only two Peruvian Sisters working with these people and the need for another community of Sisters is very great. Specific details on the future primary and secondary school are not given--only an emphasis of its necessity.

Area Description: This is a suburban slum area of Lima whose population includes many recently-arrived Indian squatters. Due to recently passed laws the people will be able to own the land on which they originally settled and they should, therefore, tend to become rather stable. The area is now staffed by the Irish Columban Fathers who have three parishes in operation and plan a half dozen more. The petition states that this is one of the most needy areas in Peru.

Present Facilities: There are no details given regarding a school but the Sisters would have to build a convent.

Finances: The Nuncio explains that in addition to building a convent, the Sisters would have to provide some financial aid during the first year or two after the school's opening. After this period, the petition explains, the school would pay for itself and provide funds for future expansion.

Petitioner: Same as for Request #25.

Request #28 - Peru, Archdiocese of Lima (Date: May, 1961 - Nunciature, Lima)

Present Facilities: No details given.

Finances: Apparently there would be no financial responsibility for the Sisters. The petition states that the school in the neighboring Maryknoll parish has had great success and been able to support itself without difficulty. It has catered to the same class of people economically as that of the Matute parish.

Petitioner: Same as in Request #25.

Request #29 - Peru, Archdiocese of Lima (Date: May, 1961 - Nunciature, Lima)

It is completely neglected spiritually at present although it is expected that a group of U. S. priests will soon be able to staff the parish. It is described as an area which will develop into one of the choice residential districts of Lima, similar to San Isidro and Miraflores. The petition explains that the people here are of a class which needs to be made more aware of social justice and it would be a splendid opportunity to begin with a parochial school.

Present Facilities: No details given.

Finances: Authorities state that there would probably be no financial responsibilities for the Sisters.

Petitioner: Same as in Request #25.

The Bishop proposes that in each of the four cities a house be established for young students and another for young men. Such homes would reassure the families in the surrounding areas that although their children were sent to study in the cities, they would still be able to live in an atmosphere which did not endanger their moral growth.
