

TO: Colleagues in Ibero-American Studies
 FROM: David Chaplin
 SUBJECT: A conference on Population Problems and Development in Latin America

It will be held May 3 and 4 in the Wisconsin Center.
 (See the enclosed working schedule.)

Our request of you at the moment is that you nominate a few graduate students to be invited to the last three panels. The first session on Policy will be open to the public, but the subsequent sessions will be limited to 45 persons--audience and panelists together. Therefore if you have promising students who are especially interested in one of these three themes, please list their names*-since admission will be by invitation only. All of you are, of course, invited to all of the sessions, and therefore we would also like to know in advance if you plan to attend. Please return these forms to me, Sociology, Social Science, as soon as possible.

* Please nominate no more than three per session

Will you be attending:

Names and Addresses of Students

Session II. Socio-Economic Aspects of Population Growth in Latin America

Session III. The History of Population Change in Latin America

Session IV. Agrarian Policies and Population Growth
